Notice.

DIFFICULTIES arising from the nature of the following work, the publisher has been compelled to remove to Philadelphia for the better execution of his plan. The editorial department has in consequence fallen into other hands. Mr. ALLEN'S present engagement rendering it impossible to superintend it in another city. The friends and relations of the different signers to the Declaration of Independence are therefore requested to direct their favors to the publisher, No. 443, Market-street, Philadelphia.

PROPOSALS

By Joseph M. Sanderson,

For Publishing by Subscription,

A Biography of the Signers OF THE Declaration of Independence,

Accompanied with Plates.

To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are affixed to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exertion of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemoration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprizes of man, none has awaked into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature; none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no favorable prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptible rights of humanity by the "mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors;" and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world; their names will not pass away nor be forgotten, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.—Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed, that the state of Brutus brought death on its possessor.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the sleeps of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his hut the emblems of his father's valour.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the patronage of our fellow-citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our biography, upon the generosity of their surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers of half volumes of 200 pages, octavo; and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontis-piece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence, with engraved fac similes of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States.

II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery.

THE MAID'S SOLILOQUY.

A PARODY.

The maid alone, with Milton in her hand,
opens to that celebrated passage,

" Hail wedded love, mysterious law, &c.
Our Maker bids increase ; who bids abstain,
But our destroyer, foe to God and Man?

It must be so! Milton, thou reasonest well—
Else why this pleasing hope, this fond desire,
This longing after something unpossest?
Or whence this secret dread, this inward horror
Of dying unespous'd; why shrinks the soul
Back on itself, and startles at virginity?
'Tis reason, faithful reason, stirs within us;
'Tis nature's self that points out an alliance,
And intimates a husband to the sex.
Marriage; thou pleasing, and yet anxious thought! [we pass,
Through what new scenes and changes must
Th' unchanging state in prospect lies before me;
But shadows, clouds and darkness rest upon it.
Here I will hold. If nature prompts the wish
(And that she does is plain from all her works)
Our duty and our interest bid, indulge it,
For the great end of nature's law is bliss;
But yet—in wedlock woman must—obey!
I'm weary of these doubts, the priest shall end them.
Nor rashly do I venture loss and gain:
Bondage and pleasure meet my thoughts at once:
I wed: my liberty is gone forever, [secured!
But happiness from time itself
Love first shall recompence my loss of freedom; [eyes
And when my charms shall fade away, my
Themselves grow dim, my stature bend with years,
Then virtuous friendship shall succeed to love;
Then, pleas'd I'll scorn infirmity and death,
Renewed immortal in a filial race.

BON MOT.

An anecdote is related of Mr. Proger, of Werndee, in Monmouthshire, which exhibits the pride of ancestry in a striking point of view. The house which had lately been repaired for the tenant, was in such a state of dilapidation, that the father of the last proprietor, Mr. Proger, was in danger of perishing under the ruins of the ancient mansion, which he venerated even in decay. A stranger, whom he accidentally met at the foot of the Skyrrid, made various enquiries respecting the country, the prospect, and the neighboring houses; and, among others, asked, 'Whose is this antique house before us?' 'That sir, is Werndee, a very ancient house; for out of it came the earls of Pembroke of the first line, and the earls of Pembroke of the second line; the lords Herbert of Culbrook, Rumney, Caerdiff and York; the Morgans of Acton; the earls of Hundson; the Jones of Trewin and Lanarth; and all the Powells. Out of this house also, by the female line, came the dukes of Beaufort.'—'And pray, sir, who lives there now?' 'I do sir.' 'Then pardon me, and accept a piece of advice: come out of it yourself, or it will tumble and crush you.'

A POINT OF LAW SAVED!

James I. of Great Britain, who loved both to hear and say things that were humourous, had once a petition preferred to him, in which the petitioner, having set forth his merits, most humbly prayed his majesty to grant him letters patent for receiving a shilling from every one of his subjects who should be willing to give so much to him. 'In gude troth,' said the king, 'a very reasonable petition.—Let every man give thee twa shillings gin he be willing so to do, and thee shall have full liberty to receive it.' 'But,' says the petitioner, 'I desire that this clause may be inserted in my patent, that every man who refuses to give me a shilling, should appear at Westminster Hall to show cause why he so refuses.' 'This also,' says the king, 'shall be granted thee, but always with this proviso, that the man be willing to come.'

[London Star.

THE UNICORN.

Mr. Bowdich, when on his mission to Ashuntee, inquired of the people of that country, and of Dagwumba, whether they had ever heard of an Unicorn? "Yes!" replied they, "in the white man's country!"

MR. KEAN.

A late London paper has the following satirical remark on Mr. KEAN: "We are informed by a correspondent that new types have been cast at a foundery, expressly for the purpose of announcing Mr. KEAN's name in a proper manner in the bills. They are like himself, rather short, but have, what the printers call, a fine broad face."

ALEXANDRIA:

Also, a petition from sundry inhabitants of Culpepper, Fauquier, and Prince William, praying the passage of an act for opening a road from Carter's bridge to the village of Occoquan, and another from the town of Dumfries to the first mentioned road, by the shortest and most convenient route.

Also, a petition from sundry inhabitants of Kanawha county, for the improvement of the navigation of James and Kanawha rivers, and a speedy completion of the long meditated work of opening a communication between the Chesapeake and Ohio; or if no other object can be accomplished, for authorizing a company to open and improve the navigation of the Kanawha river.

DISTRESSING CASUALTY.

We learn that a distressing accident took place in North Providence, on Friday, the 26th ult. the sad particulars of which have been thus related to us. Mr. James Devereux, son of Mr. Nathaniel K. Devereux, was proceeding in a light wagon from Smithfield to North Providence, on a visit to his father, accompanied by his wife and infant child, & his wife's sister, of about 9 years of age, and when within about 2½ miles of his father's house, in proceeding down a rough road, the horse took fright, and in endeavoring to rein him in, Mr. Devereux fell from his seat, and it is supposed the wagon passed over him—The horse ran with the wagon a considerable distance, the other persons having been thrown from it, when he was stopped by some persons on the road, who immediately proceeded to the spot where the unfortunate Mr. Devereux lay, with his wife weeping over him. He was taken up, and conveyed to the house of Mr. Jesse Smith, in North Providence, when medical aid was soon procured: but it was too late. It was found that his head was much injured, and his arm and hand badly bruised and broken. He survived the fatal accident about six hours. Mr. D. was a young man esteemed for his amiable manners and correct deportment.—He was in the 23d year of his age, and has left a disconsolate wife, one child, nine brothers and sisters, and many other friends, to lament this afflictive bereavement. His remains were committed to the silent tomb on Monday last, after an affecting and appropriate discourse by the Rev. Mr. Park, from these words: "Set thine house in order, for thou shalt die and not live."

Vincennes, (Indiana) Nov. 13.

HORRID MURDER.

A short time since we adverted to the frequency of crime in the Western country, and copied from an Illinois paper, an account of a murder committed at the United States Saline. We have now the disgusting task of recording another, as brutal and barbarous as any which has stained the annals of the west. Unless more exertion is made for the conviction of the perpetrators of such deeds, the great roads in Illinois will soon rival the most dangerous parts of Italy and Germany; and travellers, as in those countries, will be obliged to go in bands, particularly armed against the murderous assaults of monsters in human shape, whose trade is robbery, and whose pastime is spilling human blood.

Three men were travelling on foot from St. Louis to Vincennes. Their names were Squires, Morris and Wagner, at the persuasion of Wagner, they passed Lewis's Tavern, about 4 miles, and encamped in a thicket on Friday night last. In the dead of the night, Wagner rose, and with a large knife cut the throat of Squires, who was an old man, and without a struggle. The wretch then attempted the same act on Morris, but fortunately the first stab awakened him, and in the struggle the murderer seized the old man's cane, and beat Morris until he supposed him to be dead. He then robbed them, and left them. Morris revived, and was discovered by some travellers on Saturday, as he was strolling about the prairie in a deranged situation, who humanely conveyed him to Lewis's, where he soon recovered so as to tell the shocking story. A party immediately started in search of Squires, and found him in the thicket, dead, with his neck dreadfully mangled, and bathed in blood. He was burried as decently as circumstances would permit. Travellers who have seen Morris, affirm that he cannot long survive.

Such is the plain narrative of this bloody business. Morris states that he had 70 dollars in notes on the Bank of Chillicothe, and 10 dollars in silver, which are all missing. He knows nothing of the property of the old man. He describes Wagner as being a man of about 160 pounds weight, dark hair and beard, prominent mouth, and a carpenter by trade: his clothing, such as is usually worn by boatmen; with a linen knapsack. It is believed he passed through Vincennes on Saturday evening last.

LATEST NEWS FROM THE HAVANA.

Extract of a letter from Havana, dated November 15, 1819.

"Morillo, the Spanish general, is expected here daily, and, I may add, hourly. It is the general belief among us, that he has been defeated by Bolivar, and that the latter is now in possession of the whole of the province of Caraccas. I was told by one of the Consolidata here, that Bolivar has taken a million of dollars when he got possession of Santa Fee."

We have just heard, that Gen. Morillo had landed at Havana, previous to the sailing of the schooner Baltimore. The contest in Venezuela may now be considered at an end. If it were not, Morillo would not have left that country. [Dem. Press.

From the Baltimore Telegraph, Dec. 7.

For the information of the good people at Washington and others whom it may interest, we insert the names and force of different "Patriot" privateers in our harbor on Saturday last. It will be no difficult matter to ascertain, that each of these originally sailed from this place, or else were prizes to one of that description.

Brig La Irresistable,	14 guns
—— Congressia, alias Nereida,	16
—— Independencia,	14
—— Puerry don, alias Tigre Oriental,	14
Schr. Almeda,	14
—— Castilian,	5
	77

And at a moderate calculation 550 men.

A pretty effective force to be employed (solely) in the cause of Liberty and Independence. There is also a brig of 16 guns, we are informed, in the bay, the commander of which has sent up for supplies. His modesty, or some other cause, deters him from favoring us with his presence at this time.

We are further informed, several privateers have lately departed. Where was the report? Whose fault that it was not made? An HONEST coaster would not have got off thus.

Two superior new vessels, built on a warlike construction, are fitting rapidly for sea. We shall hear of these hereafter.

Albany, (N. Y.) Dec. 7.

On Saturday night, the river opposite this city, and for some distance below, was frozen over. The steam boat Chancellor came up within nine miles of this city, on Saturday, and on Sunday morning the passengers went down in carriages, not daring to wait the usual departue of the boat on Monday.—The earth remains white with snow, and the cold is about equal to what is usually experienced at Christmas and New-Year. We have, however, never known the winter permanently to close in when the water in the Hudson was so low as at this time.

Extract of a letter to the editors of the National Intelligencer, dated Tennessee, November 9.

"The surrounding country is overrun by wild fire, to an extent not soon to be ascertained. It is probably general in the states adjacent, as well as in this; perhaps reaches the Rocky Mountains, or even Astoria. For more than a week the sun and moon have been seen but dimly; and were often invisible when at a considerable elevation; and during most of the nights not a star was discoverable, ; though, from every indication, scarce a spec of a cloud has floated in the atmosphere. Some plantations are injurd by the conflagrations; and, but for exertions, would mostly have been laid waste; and rumor from a distance says that many are so.

"We are BACONING—breathe as if in a malt house; and seem, should the evil increase for ten days, to come as it has for the last ten, to be in danger of suffocation.—At any rate, we might expect a prevalence of soar eyes and soar throats. But the upper regions will soon be furnished with the elements of rain. The greater the cumbustion, the more speedily the air will be raised into a state of purity.

Be that as it may, the event may suggest to some of our theorists a new solution of the question that has puzzled so many—What became of the last generation of the people who first inhabited this country? Instead of killing one another, to the last man, or dying by pestilence, or starving in a land of fertility, they were all smothered to death by smoke. This would do, if all the buffaloes and opossums had died at the same time."

The Boston Patriot states, as some woodcutters were passing through the back of the woods of Providence on the 7th instant, they discovered two men engaged in digging.—They fled, carying with them a trunk, which on hastily taking something from they dropped, and made good their retreat. On coming up, the woodmen found 1300 dollars, the greater part in specie, and a pistol.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Friday, Dec. 10.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The following members appeared this day, were qualified, and took their seats, viz. from Massachusetts, Mr. Fuller, from Michigan, Mr. Woodbridge, Delegate.

A great number of petitions were presented and referred; of which several were of a general nature, and among them, the petition of the Chamber of Commerce of the city of Philadelphia, in favor of the establishment of a uniform system of Bankruptcy, and several petitions for a recision of the tariff of duties on imports. The petitions, of all descriptions amounting to 65 in number, were properly referred.

Mr. Storrs, of New-York, rose to offer a resolution. In doing so, he disclaimed any intentfon or wish to agitate anew any question arising out of the subject which had been so much discussed in this House, at the last session of Congress. But, he said, if there was any point on which this House should be particularly tenacious of its prerogatives, it was upon its constitutional right of originating Revenue Bills, and its concurrent right with the Senate, of denoting, according to their own discretion, the manner in which the public monies should be appropriated and applied. The only object then, of his present motion, was, to enquire whether any abuses in the distribution of the public money had heretofore occurred, that, if so, they might for the future be provided against.

Mr. S. then presented the following resolution:

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to enquire and report to this House, whether any of the public monies appropriated by Congress for the pay and subsistance of the regular army of the United States, since the 4th day of March, 1815, have been applied to the support of any army or detachment of troops, raised without the consent of this House, or the authority of Congress, and that the said committee also have leave to report by bill.

The resolution was agreed to without debate, or opposition.

On motion of Mr. Folger, it was

Resolved, That the committee of ways and means be instructed to enquire into the expediency of granting to William Cole and others, owners of the brig Bonif[illegible] drawback of the duties on a quantity of Whale oil, imported from Brazil, in said brig in the month of June, 1817, and which has since been exported out of the United States; and that such papers as are on file in the Clerk's Office, relative to said subject, be taken therefrom, and referred to the same committee.

On motion of Mr. Pindall, it was

Resolved, That the committee on the Judiciary be instructed to enquire into the expediency of providing by law for the prosecution of suits in the nature of petitions of right, and informations of intrusion, in cases in which the government of the U. States is concerned.

And then the House adjourned until Monday.

DUELS.

We have observed with much regret the frequent instance of duels in our country, and even in our vicinity. It has been remarked with much truth that duelling does not import a possession of magnanimity among those concerned. It is in various instances the result of cowardice, and never of a due sense of honor. We have the pleasure to relate an anecdote of the great and good WASHINGTON, which explains the definition of TRUE HONOR, as applied to duelling, and which is most consonant to greatness of soul, real courage and "honor." [Balt. Patriot.

ANECDOTE OF WASHINGTON.

In 1754, he was stationed at Alexandria, (D. C.) with his regiment, the only one in the colony, and of which he was Colonel. There happened at that time to be an election in Alexandria for members of the assembly, and the ballot ran high between Col. George Fairfax and Mr. William Elzey. Washington was on the side of Fairfax, and a Mr. Wm. Payne headed the friends of Elzey. In the course of the contest Washington grew very warm, (for his passions, naturally, were terrible, though a wise regard to duty, i. e. honor and happiness, soon reduced them to proper command), and unluckily said something to Mr. Payne, who though a cub in size, was a lion in heart, elevated his shillelah, and, at a blow, extended our hero on the ground:—News was soon carried to the regiment that their Colonel was murdered by the mob! On the passions of the soldiers, who doated on their commander, such a report fell at once, like a flash of lightning on a magazine of gun-powder. In a moment, the whole regiment was under arms, and in rapid motion, towards the town, burning for vengeance.—During this time Washington had been liberally plied with cold water, acids, and volatiles: and happily for Mr. Payne and his party, was so far recovered as to go out and meet his enraged soldiers, who crowded round him with faces of honest joy to see him alive again. After thanking them for such an evidence of attachment to him, he assured them that he was not hurt in the least, and begged them, by their love of him, and of their duty, to return peaceably to their barracks. As for himself, he went to his room, generously chastising his passion, which had thus struck out a spark that had like to have thrown the whole town into a flame.—And feeling himself the aggressor of Mr. Payne, he resolved to make him the honorable reparation of asking his pardon. No sooner had he made this heroic resolution, than recovering that delirious gaiety, which ever accompanies good purposes in a virtuous mind, he went to a ball that night and behaved as though nothing had happened. Early next morning he wrote a polite note of invitation to Mr. Payne, to meet him at the tavern—Payne took it for a challenge, and repaired to the tavern in full expectation of smelling gun-powder. But what was his surprise on entering the chamber to see, in lieu of a brace of pistols, a decanter of wine and a pair of glasses on the table. Washington rose to meet him, and offering his hand with a smile began—"Mr. Payne, to err sometimes is nature, to rectify error, is always glory. I believe I was wrong in the affair of yesterday; you have had, I think some satisfaction, and if you deem that sufficient, here is my hand, let us be friends."

An act of such sublime virtue, proceed its proper effect on the mind of Mr. Payne, who from that moment became the most enthusiastic admirer and friend of Washington; and, for his sake, ready at any time to charge up to a battery of two and forty pounders.

Would our youth but be persuaded to act in a style as correct and so heroic, our papers would no longer shock us with accounts of elegant young men murdering each other, on false principles of honor; and by one desperate deed, unnerving themselves of all presence, pleasure, and of all future hope.—Would they but exert the courage, the 'only true courage,' to stamp into immediate silence the clamours of brutish passion, and to leap at the sacred call of duty they might long live as good children, to equal the hopes of their fond parents —as good citizens, with their virtues to enrich their country—as good husbands to bless the sex they were born to love and to protect—and at length like Washington attain to good old age, "crown'd with riches and with honors."

A life how glorious! to his country dear,
Her first in council, and her first in war;—
May his example, all our sons inspire!
And from their father's history, catch his fire.

PRESENCE OF MIND.

In the reign of Queen Anne, a gentleman, was driving post to London, over Hounslow-heath, when his chaise was stopped by two highwaymen, who with dreadful imprecations called out to him to deliver his money.

The gentleman happened to have in the chaise, at the time, cash, &c. to a very great amount, the loss of which would have been his utter ruin. He had not a minute to reflect, and yet with astonishing composure and presence of mind, he instantly hit upon an expedient which extricated him from his danger: he told the robbers that his life was chiefly in their hands, as they might take it themselves, or deliver him into the hands of justice, out of which he could not be released but by death, as he was the unfortunate general Macartney, for the apprehending of whom, on account of the death of the Duke of Hamilton, the Queen had, by proclamation offered so great a reward:—he implored, therefore, their compassion, and intreated them not to take his money, as by being deprived of the means of escape, he must unavoidably be apprehended. The robbers consulted for a few minutes, and then informed him that they had agreed to grant part of his request, namely, not to take his money from him; but on the other hand, as money was absolutely necessary for them, and as they could get more by apprehending than by robbing him, they said he must submit to be carried before some magistrate, as they were determined to deserve and claim the reward offered for his apprehension. The gentleman rejoiced at hearing the intelligence, and having been carried before a Justice of the Peace, who happened to know the person, of Gen. Macartney, he was discharged, not being the person, but the two highwaymen were, on his story, committed.

Of all the noted sayings and replies said to have dropped from celebrated personages, we recollect none so rational, so truly independent of favor or fortune, as one recorded in that elegant work, "Mrs. Bobson's life of Petrarch." Stephen Colonna (one of the Cardinals of that name) had suffered in the quarrels of the Guelphs and the Gibbellines, who distracted Italy with their factions, and had not even a single house left. When in the midst of battle and oppressed with numbers, one of his friends, terrified with the peril in which he saw him, ran to his aid, crying out, "Stephen! Stephen! where is your fortress?" "Here it is," he replied with a smile, laying his hand on his heart.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, on Thursday, the 11th inst. a negro man, named DICK, who sometimes calls himself Dick Douglas. He is a small man about 5 feet 6 inches high, and is not a very black man. I purchased him from the estate of Edgar McCarty esq. Cedar Grove, Fairfax county, Va. and it is likely that he may be lurking about that neighborhood or Colchester, as he has a wife at capt. Berry's of the latter place; or he may have gone to Loudoun county, as he has lived there in the neighborhood of Wm. McCarty and John McCarty, near Leesburg. He had on and took with him an old grey cloth coat and a brown do pantaloons of drab colored domestic cloth. He is much addicted to liquor, and is a coarse shoemaker. I will give 20 dollars if taken in the district of Columbia. Thirty dollars if taken in Fairfax county, and the above reward if apprehended in any other place, and secured so that I get him again; and reasonable charges if brought home. WM. B. STUART.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the subscriber living in King George's county Va. on Monday the 22nd March, a yellow man named about 22 years of age, his fore teeth wide apart, and cannot speak very quick—had on Virginia cloth clothes and carried off a shaggy great coat, he has a father named Peter Hall, who lives with the widow Morgan, at Oak Hill, Fauquier Co. and his grandfather, old Frederick Hall, is supposed to be living at Mr. Terrett's near Alexandria, and it is likely he may be lurking about there.—I will give the above reward for apprehending and securing said fellow so that I get him again, and reasonable charges if brought home. 100 Dollars Reward.

JAMES,

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, living near Aldie, Loudoun county, Virginia, on the night of the 11th inst. a negro man, who calls his name NED BIAYS. He is a shrewd, intelligent negro, about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches high; 30 years of age, well made, active and polite. Had on when he went away, a sky colored coat, and corded pantaloons. His right eye sore, apparently occasioned by a blow, the blood having settled around it. His ears have been pierced, and had green silk in them when he went away. It is expected he is now lurking about Fairfax court-house and Aldie. The above Ned Biays ran away on the night of the 25th of last Aug and was caught on the 11th inst. on the night of which he effected his elopement by drawing the staple to which he was fastened by the handle of a pan while there was no person in the kitchen but himself. He was caught on the 11th inst. a few miles below Aldie, but I think it improbable that he has gone near the same place again. I will give 100 dollars if he is taken out of the county, and fifty if taken in the county, and secured so that I get him again, and all reasonable charges if brought home. GEO. GULICK.
P S. It is supposed that the said negro has obtained papers of freedom, or a free pass, or something of the kind. G. G.

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the sirname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, asmooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse cloathing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should be be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY on the 25th of April last, a man called NED, formerly the property of Mr. Fitzhugh, of Fairfax, and by him sold to Hepburn & Dundas. He had on when he went away an old country blue and white cloth coat, and kersey trowsers—his right hand in a sling, in consequence of the kick of a horse. Ned is a stupid looking fellow, and hesitates very much when he speaks. I will give fifty dollars if apprehended in the District, or the above reward for apprehending him out of the District, so that I get him again.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be goverued by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them.
